

A VERY LARGE HAUL.

Two Arizona Burglars Captured at Los Angeles.

Much Plunder Recovered Consisting of Gold and Gold-filled Watches Sheriff of Yavapai County After the Prisoners.

Two burglars who turned a trick at Prescott, Ariz., on the night of the 7th inst., when they secured about a thousand dollars' worth of jewelry from H. Lemon's store, have been arrested here and a large portion of the stolen property recovered. The officers making the capture are Detectives Hawley and Auble. The thieves give their names as James Miller and George Leander. Extradition papers have already been issued and Sheriff G. C. Ruffner is now on his way to this city after the prisoners.

The burglars were arrested Thanksgiving day. During the forenoon of that Detective Hawley and Auble were on Main street near Requena street, when they saw two men come out of a store and shake hands with James Jeffries, a well known local thief. The men were strangers in the city and their familiarity with Jeffries caused the officers to suspect that they were crooks. Accordingly, when the trio started off down the street together a moment later the detectives shadowed them to an opium joint on Main street, which they visited.

After awhile Jeffries came out and walked down Main street to the Mug saloon, through which he passed out to Mott alley, thence down to Second street and out to Broadway, where he was again joined by the two men from whom he had parted but a few minutes before. Jeffries and one of the men walked into a Third street lodging house and were followed a moment later by the other of the two strangers, who was carrying an ordinary lunch pail in his hand. It was afterward learned that this pail contained the proceeds of the Arizona robbery. When the three had gone inside still a fourth man, whose name the detectives refused to reveal, joined the others in the lodging house.

The officers then stepped up the stairway as softly as possible and reached the room where, by the voices which they could hear inside they knew the quartet which had proceeded there into the house were locked up.

Fortunately there was a crack in the door through which the detectives could see what was going on inside the room. Spread out on the bed was the plunder which had been dumped from the innocent looking tin dinner pail.

The cases had been removed from the works and some of them had been twisted and broken preparatory to melting up. The fourth man who had come up was dicker with the others for the purchase of the plunder. He was heard to say: "I have no scales here and cannot tell just how much the stuff is worth, but I'll give you $60 for it." The thieves were holding out for more and one of them said: "We have lots more of the stuff. Pay us what we ask and we'll throw in some more some other time."

Finally one of the men came to the door and unlocking it stepped out. Just as he entered the hall the detectives threw their revolvers into his face and ordered "Hands up." No show of resistance was made and the four men were marched to the city jail, where their arrest was made a matter of secrecy.

Word of the arrest was at once telegraphed to the sheriff of Yavapai county and he left yesterday morning for this city. The property which was recovered is valued at $400. The detectives believe that the rest of the plunder was planted in Arizona and that the thieves expected to dispose of what they brought with them and then return for more. A description of the property stolen on the night when Lemon's store was burglarized is as follows:

Fifty gold and gold-filled watches, with plush cases; thirty-four silver watches, with and without movements; thirty movements alone of American make, all sizes; 100 gold rings, plain, and several neck chains, necklaces, etc.

It is not thought that Jeffries or the man who was going to purchase the property can be strongly enough connected with the theft to hold them. Jeffries, it is thought, acted as a go-between for the others.

Nothing is known of the record of either of the thieves, but it is not thought that they ever operated in this state. James Miller is about 25 years old, five feet, eleven inches in height, will weigh 160 pounds, and is an opium fiend. George Leander is 35 years old, five feet, seven inches in height, and will weigh 135 pounds.

Where There are no Old Maids.

In Greece it is considered an everlasting disgrace to remain an old maid. Girls are betrothed very often when still tiny babes.

Marriages of love are absolutely unknown—even more so than in France. And the father is most particular that the intended husband must have an ample provision to support a wife and family. For the girl a dowry is not so important as in France, but a certain amount of linen and household furniture is required. The whole training and education of a Greek girl is simply a preparation to render her brilliant in the society of the great world. Her toilet is a subject of constant anxiety.

Although most Greek girls are naturally very pretty, they begin to paint and powder from a very early age—cheeks bright red, eyebrows and lashes deepest black and veins delicately blue. The result is that she is a withered old woman at 40, and nowhere are uglier women to be found than beneath the blue skies of lovely Greece.

Next in importance to beauty comes languages. Every Greek family who can afford it keeps a French nurse or maid, and French is universally spoken in society. Painting and music are quite unnecessary, but girls are carefully trained in dancing and drilled to enter a room and sit down with elegance. Lastly, household duties are taught—how to make rose jam, Turkish coffee and various delicate sweetmeats.

"I wonder who invented kissing?" he said, after they had had one. "Oh, some fool," she replied. "How can you say that," he asked. "Because, if he had not been a fool he would have patented the process." Then they had another.—Town Topics.

Mike, having been directed to go down to the station and see when the next train left, is gone about an hour. Perkins (anxiously)—Well, Mike?

Mike—Well, sor, I had to wait a long time, sor, but it has just left.—The Sun.

Bob Borrower—According to my memorandum book I owe you ten dollars.

Lon Lenditt (nervously)—No, Bob;—it is only five.

Bob Borrower—The deuce you say! Then just let me have another V to straighten out my book, will you?—Puck.

Mrs. Grouch—I heard of a man who broke himself of swearing by paying his wife five cents every time he uttered an oath.

Mr. Grouch—Oh, no, you don't! "Don't what?"

"Get me into any snap like that. You'd be furnishing burned steak and soggy biscuits every morning."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

In Confidence.

The Fiance—When I was a small boy, Alice, I was given to ringing door-bells and running away.

The Fiance—But you don't do anything like that now, I suppose?

The Fiance—I came near doing it the night I called on your father to ask his consent.—Puck.

When the young man called to ask for the old man's daughter the latter naturally thought it was necessary to put up a good bluff, that being the usual method of procedure. Consequently, he looked solemn, coughed once or twice as a sort of preliminary, commenced with himself a minute or two, coughed again and asked:

"Can you support her in the style to which she has been accustomed?" "If I couldn't," returned the young man promptly, "I ought to be ashamed of myself."

The old man's bluff was called.—Chicago Post.

Two experienced brewers from Colorado are at present in Prescott, looking over the situation here with a view of starting a brewery. They are already so favorably impressed that they have ordered a lot of tools and material for the purpose of commencing operations. In the course of their investigations, as to the possibility of such, they have learned that during a period of ten months, from January 1 to November 1, 1897, there were ninety-nine carloads of beer shipped over the S. F., P. & P. railroad. Of the amount Jerome received 15 carloads; Prescott, 34; Congress, 10; Phoenix, 40.—Journal-Miner.
